Story in Focus

Miller's Miraculous Recovery

In a recent case, Miller, a 3-year-old labrador, was brought to the CGS Veterinary Care Hospital Pasha Wing. Miller was persistently vomiting despite a week of treatment at another veterinary facility. A comprehensive examination was done by the CGS Team, including an ultrasound that revealed a ping pong ball in the intestine. The ball was successfully removed in an emergency surgery.

Miller encountered severe systemic inflammatory response syndrome (SIRS) post-surgery, jeopardising his survival. Despite the successful surgery, dedicated treatment from skilled veterinarians and compassionate care from the CGS team led to Miller's miraculous recovery.

This heartening journey of Miller at the CGS Veterinary Care Hospital highlights the importance of skilled veterinary care for our furry friends.
